

Basic Detail Report

Title: "Once more Mr. Bohun stood in the center of a stage. Then the rich voice boomed out, quoting from the play."

Date: 1939

Primary Maker: com.gallerysystems.emuseum.core.entities.RecordXPerson@3e181

Medium: Oil on canvas

Description: "Last Act, Last Scene" afforded Davis an opportunity to display his ability to create a room full of elegantly dressed figures from high society. The crowd on the right conveys a spectrum of reactions to the performance of the actor on the left whose facial expressions and body movements have heightened the dramatic conclusion to what must have been a gripping tale. Even the servant, seen in shadows behind the buffet table, has a marked response to the actor's performance. Davis was noted for his ability to remember and re-create the most minute details of costume and furnishings.

Dimensions: 28 1/8 x 32 1/8 in.